What a year! Stick around it gets better!!

The AKA Endurance Series finished on a high with 30 entries and 90 karters at Newcastle. After two days close racing the Championship was decided. Good performances from Enforcer, EKA, Kinetic, Horsepower, Buildline, and King of Parts taking out the top places.

Some did enough to have an effect the Championship for others it was out of reach. Congratulations to Triple 1 Motorsport and Cyclo Horsepower taking out the A and B Championship respectively. Triple 1 have achieved this a second year in a row. There are plenty of teams that are keen to make sure they don't achieve it again.

Next years series has attracted a huge amount of interest and conversation already. Four very fast and consistent teams make the move from B to A Grade. There is also rumored to be two or three new teams set to join the outright competition, plus the return of one or two old teams. The B Championship is wide open with all that remain and a host of new teams joining.

The idea of next year's series was to retain all the wonderful aspect of this year while making the calendar interesting and accessible. Three one day events with a fourth (not far from Sydney) being a single day with a second optional. Four more extremely popular interstate tracks (one we haven't been to), and another awesome trip to QLD. Finish it off with a State Title 8hr Night Race in Sydney. No wonder there is a heap of interest!

There is talk of an extremely successful chassis manufacturer preparing their first endurance chassis to enter a factory team. Also ten European karts have just arrived in OZ bound for the TEKA series.
